FOREWORD

I am extremely glad to note that Jomotsangkha Wildlife Sanctuary is coming up with first Pictorial Record of Butterflies that will be launched on the World Ranger Day 2018. It is indeed an opportunity to commemorate dedication and hard work performed by frontline staff to protect biodiversity of the country.

Jomotsangkha Wildlife Sanctuary is operationalized with establishment of Head Office in Jomotsangkha in September 2017. It is indeed a commendable achievement being able to record 160 species of butterflies within a year of its operation. It is important to assess and document biodiversity in the park in order to make suitable management decisions. A good data is also required to monitor and evaluate the effective management of the park. This publication would serve as a useful document for park staff and other stakeholders. I am confident that more species will be added to the list in the coming years.

I take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to Park Manager and all field staffs for your effort to come up with this document.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Jomotsangkha Wildlife Sanctuary (JWS) would like to thank a team of dedicated staff led by Mr. Lekey Chaida, Forestry Officer for your tireless effort to come up with this booklet. There are several individuals who have collected photo of butterflies. My sincere thanks to Karma Wangdi, Ugyen Wangchuck Institute for Environment Conservation and Research for helping us identify the butterfly species.

The management would like to thank all staff under JWS for your contribution in your own small ways to this publication. Lastly, the management would like to thank WWF-Bhutan for your generous financial support for printing this booklet.

Ugyen Tshering
PARK MANAGER

INTRODUCTION

Bhutan is located in the eastern Himalayas with Nepal, Sikkim, and Arunachal Pradesh with most diverse biodiversity in the region. The landscape falls in the transition zone between Indo-Malayan and Indo-Chinese biogeographic region. JWS was notified in 1993 and from 1st May 2017 it got separated from Samdrupjongkhar Forest Division, which is one of the recent sanctuaries that came into management in Bhutan. It has an area of 334.73sq.km and represents the south-eastern part of the country's ecosystem. It lies between 26° 48'N and 26°60'N, 091° 42'E and 092° 08'E; where altitude ranges from 200masl to 4380masl. It consists of all the forest types present in the country from Sub-tropical Forest till Alpine meadows with grasslands along the southern fringes.

Butterflies, estimated around 18,000 species to there in the world and 1318 species in Indian sub continent, 450 species in Pakistan, 245 in Sri Lanka 640 in Nepal and very few is known from Bhutan (Smetacek, 2017). 800 species of Butterflies are estimated to be occurred in the country (Wangdi & Sherub, 2012). In Bhutan butterflies are found from subtropical foothills to high snow capped mountains in the north. Few diversity studies on butterflies are carried out in the country however in JWS there is no single study carried out on butterfly fauna.

“A POCKET GUIDE TO Butterflies of Jomotsangkha Wildlife Sanctuary” is first of its kind with 160 species covering seven families of butterflies. It can be used as a guide to identify and know the diversity of butterfly species.

METHODOLOGY

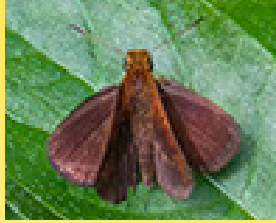

To accomplish the present pocket guide; photographs were contributed by all the staffs under our office during field works from riverbeds, stream ways, roads, trails, agriculture fields, settlements, lakes and forest in JWS. Forest type of the study area includes sup tropical grasslands, subtropical forest, warm broadleaved forest, cool broadleaved forest and few photographs were collected from temperate forest too.

Photographs of butterflies were taken from August 2017 to May 2018. Butterflies were observed during day times 08:00 am to 04:00 pm. An opportunistic survey was carried out whenever we were in the field works. Simple nets were used capture some species and Canon Mark II, Nikon D900, Nikon P900 and Samsung Androids mobiles where used to capture photographs. Butterflies were identified using “A Naturalist’s Guide to the BUTTERFLIES OF INDIA, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh and Sri Lhanka (2017) by Peter Smetacet, Butterflies of Bhutan A Field Guide by UWICE, Field Guide for SWALLOWTAILS of Bhutan (2012) by UWICE, BUTTERFLIES OF BHUTAN mountain, hills and valleys between 800 and 3000m (2007) by Piet van der Poel and Tashi Wangchuk, “Field Guide to Hesperiidæ (Skippers) of Bhutan (2014) by UWICE and few species were referred to experts within and outside Bhutan.
